

NEW CAROLS FOR CHRISTMAS...

Saturday 18 September 9.30am - 5pm
Churchill Hall, Berkhamsted

Come and learn new Christmas carols at a FREE workshop, followed by an informal concert,
and get into the festive spirit early this year!

You're a singer. Or a conductor. Or a choir leader. Or a teacher. And you're planning your Christmas concert. Wouldn't it be a pleasure to have some new music to include? Something a little bit different, to reinvigorate your singers, and make your audience sit up and take notice.

Sound good?

Then come and join Berkhamsted Choral Society and their conductor Graham Wili for a fun, intensive workshop exploring a collection of carols by contemporary composer Chris Williams, written over the last 30 years and newly published as Nowell! Nowell! Scores will be provided for use during the workshop – and, of course, to purchase afterwards if you wish, along with a CD recorded earlier this year. PLUS – meet the composer: Chris Williams himself will be there on the day.

"Different, vibrant, well written and uncomplicated... I warmly encourage choirs to look carefully at what is on offer here."

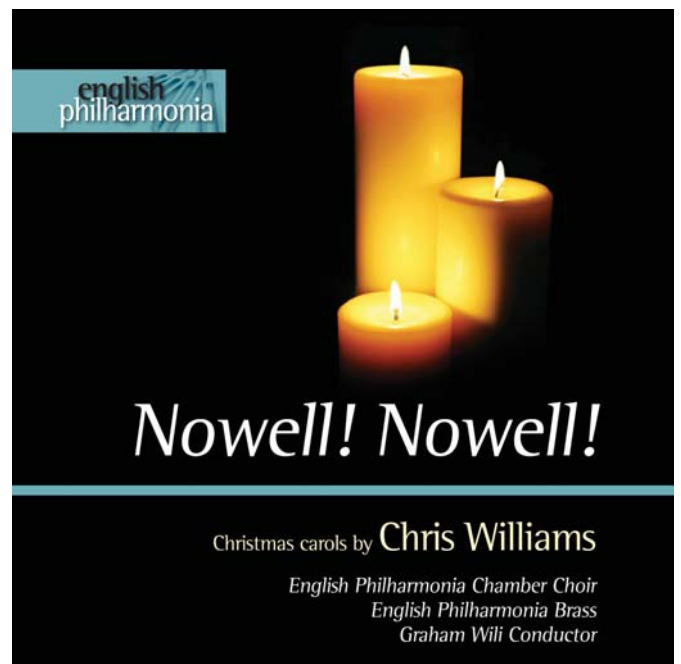

Paul Trepte, Director of Music, Ely Cathedral

"Chris Williams' carols are always very popular with our audiences and are exceptionally well written for voices, making them very attractive to the singers."

Mark Perry, Beaford Chamber Choir, Devon

Don't miss the opportunity to discover a valuable new Christmas resource for your school, church or choir – and enjoy a wonderful day's singing...

To register, or for more info, email carolsforchristmas@gmail.com or call Julia Boyce on 01442 384324.

Berkhamsted Choral Society is delighted to be able to offer this event free, in partnership with the BBC's Choral Ambition project which has provided the funding.
