Tom has also worked on a number of education projects in Leeds, Newcastle and Hull with Opera North. In September 2013, Tom founded a new symphony orchestra based in Manchester, Piccadilly Symphony Orchestra, providing performance opportunities for emerging professional musicians.

Roderick Barrand

A member of the staff of the RNCM since 1979, Roderick has performed with many leading singers and instrumentalists, has recorded for Hyperion Records, and has broadcast on BBC 3, local radio and television. Roderick has been official accompanist to Salford Choral Society since 1985, and has appeared as concerto soloist with Sale Chamber Orchestra and the Northern Chamber Orchestra.

The Music Makers (Elgar)

Elgar was profoundly impressed by the idea of music-makers as "dreamers of dreams" and the real 'movers and shakers' of the world. There are very strong elements of nostalgia, as though the composer was addressing a world whose ideals, if it still had any, were not attuned to him. In this deeply moving work he clothes the words in unmistakable passion, resulting in writing for the chorus is as fine as any he achieved.
